

Transcript

Interviewer: Hello, this is Clay from Crucial Link. Thank you for taking a few minutes today to talk more about the job as well as your skills and experiences. How are you doing today?

Candidate: I'm doing good.

Interviewer: That's great to hear! Thank you for applying for this position. Are you currently working?

Candidate: No.

Interviewer: Alright, where was your last job, and what was your role there? Also, could you share why you left that position?

Candidate: Um, my last job was buying, shipping, Please I left because I wasn't a Interviewer: Got it, so your last role involved buying and shipping. Could you clarify why you left? Was it related to the role itself or something else?

Candidate: Something else.

Interviewer: Understood. How much general warehouse experience do you have?

Candidate: Four years.

Interviewer: Great, can you tell me about the past warehouse roles you've worked in and the companies you worked for?

Candidate: Most of work, uh, work for is picking and packing and shipping and receiving. And I worked at Amazon. I worked at Tea Turtle. I worked at short companies. I cannot think of at the moment, and I worked there shipping.

Interviewer: Thanks for sharing that. Do you have experience generating shipping documents like Bills of Lading, UPS/FedEx Labels, Packing Slips, or International Documents? If so, which ones have you created before?

Candidate: Yes. I have credit shipping labels. I kept creating FedEx labels. And documents. Document Dotation

Interviewer: Okay, so you've worked with FedEx labels and some documentation. Have you ever been involved in other warehouse duties like stock rotations for finished goods, physical counting of products, housekeeping of the warehouse or shipping office, or inventory consolidations of raw and finished goods? If so, which of these have you done before?

Candidate: I did all of those. I did housekeeping. I did um, restocking, and I did paperwork for Spectrum mix. Patients inventory. At Dade County. Yes.

Interviewer: That's great to hear you've had experience with all of those tasks. Have you helped with customer inquiries and resolutions before? If so, how much experience do you have with that, and where did you do it?

Candidate: Yes. I have. I, um, did that in my last job my recent job I had. Alright. Basically, counting out what was wrong and what was right. Yes.

Interviewer: Got it, so you've handled customer inquiries and resolutions in your last job. Do you have the ability to lift up to 50 pounds and 25 pounds over your head?

Candidate: Yes.